

The “SHSL?” What is that?

- A scavenger hunt to help introduce new users to the Science-Health Science Library -

Answer the following questions:

What does “SHSL” stand for?

What is the name of the SHSL manager?

What are the hours of operation for the SHSL?

What is SciFinder Scholar and where is it located?

How much do copies made with a copy card cost?

What workstation is the scanner connected to? (give the number)

What’s the earliest year of journals kept in the SHSL?

How do you access electronic reserves?

Can you return ILL books to the SHSL counter?

What is the loan period for the head model?

How many individual study carrels are in the SHSL?

Can periodicals be checked out? if so, for how long?

Can the SHSL staff provide change for the copy machine?

What is the room number and building of the SHSL?

On the SHSL website how many pages have a link to the SHSL blog? (hint: go to each page you think might contain the link and do a “find in this page...” [Cntrl-F] for the word “blog”)

Do the SHSL computers offer SPSS?

List one or two other software applications that you either did not know the SHSL offered or that you think are useful.

Where are the course reserves located?

Is your BSU ID required to check out a course reserve?

What is the call number of Bergey's Systematic Bacteriology?

Find the current issues of JAMA (Journal of the American Medical Association).
Was it Where you expected it to be?

Why is it located where it is?

Does the SHSL have DVDs? if so, list the title and call number of one DVD.

How many “no food in library” signs are there?

Is there any way to print to a document that uses carbon paper?
